

TRINKET BOWL — W1022

BRONZE, 1969

Model developed in the early days of General Decoration in 1969. Jules Wabbes thought an ashtray would spoil a table. He thus created this timeless object with rounded lines in rough or polished bronze. In the 70's, smoking was everywhere in life, in offices, waiting rooms, meeting rooms, restaurants. Things have changed today, but this object still keeps its place on a table or in an office, not so much as an ashtray than as a stylish piece of furniture to leave its paperclips and some small precious things.
