BRIDGING BOUNDARIES

A technicolor promenade between land and sea, the new 14-piece capsule with internationally acclaimed contemporary artist Okuda San Miguel takes Pop Surrealism from the streets to the beach. And back again.

FREEDOM AND FANTASY

Bathed in geometric harmonies and intense colors, Okuda San Miguel's artworks feel like they are from a parallel universe.

His kaleidoscopic patterns break down boundaries between modernity and our roots, the human world and the animal kingdom, shapes and identities.

Like Vilebrequin's own designs, they exist to promote fantasy and freedom.

Swimsuit tailoring is an art in itself-one Vilebrequin has spent over 50 years perfecting, true to the spirit of refinement and playfulness the house grew up with in the Saint-Tropez of the 70s.

For Vilebrequin, art has also been a constant source of energy, a vacation for the imagination. The House's swimsuit archives are overflowing with references to everything from pop art and expressionism to the prehistoric era. In more recent years, Alex Israel, Donald Sultan, Kenny Scharf, Massimo Vitali, Jean-Charles de Castelbajac, Virgil Abloh, and Derrick Adams have each made their mark on the emblematic summer garment, elevating it to its own medium-something you could just as easily frame as wear in the sun.

A traveling art collection.
